LIVELY HORSE SHOW LUNCHEON

PATRICK FRANCIS MURPHY THE STAR OF THE OCCASION.

Ranges From High Finance and the Danger of Too Much Language to the Perman ence of the Horse-President Fellowes Promises a Better Show Than Ever

If the luncheon which always precedes the Horse Show, and which was given by the directors yesterday at the Madison Square Garden, is any indication of what is to follow, the annual exhibition of the National Horse Show Association will be a bigger success than ever. This luncheon is given to exhibitors and judges, and there were more present than ever before. The guests filled the restaurant at the Madison avenu end of the big amphitheatre and chatted horse until it was time to listen to President Cornelius Fellowes and Patrick Francis Murphy: President Fellowes occupied a seat at the head of the gathering. F. K. Sturgis is the vice-president and presided at anothe table. H. H. Hollister, treasurer of the association, was at a third.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt, who has brought many of his show ring horses from Newport, was at Mr. Hollister's table, and near him were Hamilton H. Cary, the Brooklyn whip; S. Tabor Willets, Buel Hollister, Thomas L. Watt, who owns many fine ponies; Paul A. Sorg, a patron of high steppers; J. Campbell Thompson, a coaching enthusiast David Bonner, who loves the trotter; H. L. Herbert, whose fad is polo and polo pon C. Clarence Levin, S. T. Peters, A. B. Maclay, who gives a cup each year for hunters; G. B. Hulme, Joseph Agostini, Ackley C. Schuyler, J. H. Bradford, Frederick Eldridge, R. Penn Smith, J. A. Montant, W. B. Schermerhorn, E. H. Weatherbee E. von der Horst Koch, E. C. Cowdin, J. Searle Barclay, Jay F. Carlisle, W. B. Dickerman, J. T. Hyde, the father of horse shows in this country; C. W. Smith, H. W. Carey, F. V. Gooch, the English judge of saddle horses; Judge William H. Moore. owner of Forest King, who has given a cup worth $850 for gig horses this year; C. Edward C. Cookeman, an Englishman who is to judge hackneys; G. C. Clausen, J E. Cowdinand many others.

President Fellowes was heartily cheered as he rose to address the guests. He said: "While I am much pleased that you should want me to make a few remarks, I feel at the same time that you might hear from some others I see around these tables with a great deal more profit. You see we are still alive and kicking in spite of the fact that things have been somewhat upside down in the Street of late and in spite of the fact that the automobiles were going to crowd our beloved horse out of the running. The automobile has the running. The automobile has come to stay beyond a question of doubt, but there stay beyond a question of doubt, but there is plenty of room for both it and the horse and all we have had to do has been to watch the growth of that industry and congratulate ourselves that Dame Nature will provide the horse for us, an extensive machinery plant for his production not being necessary. As long as the old lady produces and we have such horsemen as I see here to pick out the best there will be horse shows, for who does not like to own a good horse, even if he does own a motor car? We have to-day in the Garden the pick of the horses in the country, and the pick of the judges, men and women, will be there to see them this week. We are going to give you a show better than ever before and are going to continue to do so every year."

do so every year."

As soon as President Fellowes sat down
As soon as President Fellowes sat down
As always there were cries for Murphy and that gen-tleman thanked all and said he was always pleased to respond to the "call of the wild." Mr. Murphy said:

This has been an eventful year-an International Horse Show has been established in London. The American Horse Show Asso-ciation, with its board of foreign missions of "Darkest England." During the present century—with one exception—the winners of the English Derby have been ridden by American jockeys, and in 1907, for the first time, the Derby has been won by an American horse from Ireland. This pleasing Irish-American interchange of transplanting the horse to Ireland and the Hibernian to America seems to improve "the race."

Even the Gibson girl's nose has been put out of joint. The face of an Irish'beauty has been selected by the artist to be commemorated on our new gold coins, and the artist who was chosen by the President by a singular coincidence was born in Ireland

The Independent Order of Americans, with patriotic devotion, "viewed with alarm" this revival of the Irish national movement; that Ireland now had "designs" on the United States Mint. In omitting from the coin "In God We Trust" the responsibility is shifted, so we can now render unto Roosevelt the things that are Roosevelt's and to Roosevelt the things that were God's.

From recent events I am reminded that a bad spell of language may cause financial disturbances. As the prisoner at the bar said, "It is words that brought me here," it is words that cause all the trouble in this world, and the judge put a few words together, forming a sentence, and passed it on him. It was said by an ancient sage, and is therefore probably true, some tongues are like clocks that keep on striking—not to tell you the time of day, but because there is somelife many things are said and not meant. Peace Conference would have solved the persuaded Governments to make silence their we have had explosive fireworks. Our President said he simply "turned on the light"; unfortunately there had been a quantity of escaped gas. The heavens were h in black. Riches took their flight on marginal wings. Investments that "one could sleep on" produced insomnia. Comparisons were animal-a buil in a china shop or a Teddy Bear in a gilt edged market.

Happily, difficulties are things that show what men are. American difficulties have produced the great Americans. It is not ourage may be shown even in an art library No sounder pieces of American manho have been put together than the group of financial statuary that defended American that the way to control circumstances is to be the greater circumstance yourself. In the lexicons of Morgan's library there is no such word as fail. On the contrary, from its walls abundant streams of revenue gushed ic confidence they had brought there to its business; and that place of historic incithat Jack Built.

But there is no loss without a gain. We are now chaste by poverty and polished by adin price and within reach of the best families. That anvil chorus, called teachings of a simple has hammered "arrogant wealth" into under present conditions, to tell the rich that there are many things in life better than money-when they have no money to buy

Former owners of automobiles now regard to the trolley is simply a transfer of affection -and like it. The Horse Show will go on un-disturbed. It is a refuge from thought and softens life's inequalities. The horse, like in-equal on the turf-and unde r it. There was a parade in the ring by the attendants clad in their spotless new uniforms and then many of the horses that

Colonial Silver

THE GORHAM COMPANY is exhibiting Colonial Style.

The best examples of the early New England silversmiths have been used as a basis for these productions and the pure classic designs faithfully executed.

The Gorham Co. Fifth Avenue

are to compete were exhibited. The entertainment ended with some of the jumpers being put over the sticks.

The show will open this morning and the programme for the day is as follows:

ALYN WILLIAMS WANTS "THAT

9 A. M.—The show opens.
9 to 10:30 A. M.—Horses ridden or led may be exercised in the ring by permission of the super-intendent.
11 A. M.—Judging thirty-two hunters or jumpers.
Class 109.
12:15 P. M.—Preliminary trial of twenty-five horses entered in the Corinthian Class 108, and only those horses then selected will be allowed to compete in that class at 5:10 P. M. on Wednesday.
November 20.

ovember 20.

1 P. M.—Recess.

2 P. M.—Judging seven pairs of harness horses 2:20 P. M.—Judging seventeen harness horses, 2:30 P. M.—Judging seventeen names horses.
2:50 P. M.—Judging four trotters, in harness, with a record of 2:30 or better, Class 11.
3:10 P. M.—Judging twelve thoroughbred saddle horses, Class 79.
3:40 P. M.—Judging seventeen harness horses, Class 43.

1888 43. 4:10 P. M.-Judging eleven qualified hunters, Class 99. 4:40 P. M.-Judging seven harness tandems, Class 57.

5:00 P. M.—Judging eight ponies in harness, Class 67.

3:20 P. M.—Judging seven thoroughbred stallions,

Class 13.

8:45 P. M.—Judging sixteen ponies under saddle, Class 84.

9:15 P. M.—Judging ten pairs of horses, shown to broughams, appointments to count, Class 45.

9:45 P. M.—Judging fourteen harness horses. Class 41. 10:20 P. M.—Judging eleven qualified hunters. Class 100. The ring committee:

Day-E. D. Morgan and John E. Cowdin. Evening-George Peabody Wetmore and BIG JAG IN THE MENAGERIE.

nuous Treatment for a Cold Mad Hattle, the Elephant, Tipsy.

The jolliest elephant ever for a few hours yesterday was Hattie, the performing pachyderm in the Central Park menagerie. The cause of her happy condition was three gallons of good First avenue whiskey, which was administered to her in an effort to break up a cold.

The rear door of her stall was left open for a time Saturday when the keepers were cleaning up and it is supposed that this was the cause of her trouble. When Headkeeper Billy Snyder went to the he found that Hattie had the shivers. He decided that the chill was indicative of a severe cold and it was up to him to act

Whiskey would do the trick, he thought and he called to Keepers Hurton and Cochran and sent them out. Hurton came back after a time and said that the Third avenue saloon keepers were suspicious of any stranger trying to buy whiskey in bulk on Sunday. Cochran was more successful further east and returned with three gallons.

When Hattie got her first mouthful of when Hattle got her hist mouthful of the whiskey she liked it. It seemed to Snyder that there was a twinkle in her eye as she looked in his direction and trumpeted a few times before putting her trunk back in the bucket for another mouthful. When the three gallons were gone she turned the bucket upside down in a search for more.

Hattie wasn't used to First avenue tipple Hattie wasn't used to First avenue tipple and she soon began to show it. She stopped shivering and began to weave, as circus men call it, swaying from side to side. Then it seemed to her that it was time to perform her tricks, and she tried to stand on her head. She couldn't do it and tumbled over on her side. With the help of the three keepers she got upon her feet again and put her trunk around the head-keeper as though in need of support.

In an effort to do the cakewalk she again fell down and the headkeeper decided to let her sleep it off for an hour. At the end of that time he got her up and brought out a lot of hay for her to eat. Hay is the brandy and soda for an elephant drunk, in his opinion.

Whether it was the hay or not Hattie was sober by noon and in the afternoon she was able to perform for the visiting Italfan Shot and Killed in a Brooklyn Street. An unidentified Italian was shot through the heart and instantly killed early last evening in front of the Italian Theatre, at 103 Union street. Brookiyn. There were twenty or thirty Italians in front of the place at the time, but the police couldn't find any one who seemed to know anything about the shooting. John Loverde, a restaurant keeper at 98 Union street, ran out to see the row and got hit in the left eye. The police locked him up as a witness.

The Weather.

An area of high pressure covered all the country resterday, save the Northwest and the extreme Southwest, where there were depressions that were not assumming storm formation.

The weather remained fair, except for showers in the Northwest and in one or two places on the Guif The temperature was slightly higher in nearly all the Northern and central States. It was cooler in the Southern States.

In this city the day was fair, with nearly stationar temperature; winds. light northwesterly; average dity. 49 per cent.; barometer, corrected to ead to sea level, at 8 A. M., 30.32; 3 P. M., 30.34 The temperature yesterday, as recorded by the fficial thermometer, is shown in the annexed table

Highest temperature, 47°, at 4 P. M. WASHINGTON FORECAST FOR TO-DAY AND TO-MORROW

F For eastern New York, partly cloudy to-day: rain t night and to-morrow; light to fresh variable winds For New England, fair to-day; rain to-morrow light to fresh variable winds, becoming easterly.

For eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, rain this afternoon or to-night; rain to-mor easterly winds, probably increasing Monday o-day and probably to-morrow; light to fresh easterly winds.

For western New York partly cloudy to-day; rain

a remarkable collection of silverware of

Since the beginning of the recent revival of Colonial Style this is the first adequate representation of the silverware of that period. It opens a new and interesting field for the selection of Wedding and Christmas Gifts.

ALYN WILLIAMS WANTS "THAT DEVIL OF A MAN" ON IVORY

And Hang Him in the Guildhall in London Right Near the King and Queen -Hopes to Get a Look at the President in Action -Maybe Mrs. Longworth Will Sit Too.

Alyn Williams, president of the Royal Society of Miniature Painting of England and ranked highest of the artists on ivory in Great Britain, has painted miniatures of his Majesty Edward VII and her Majesty Queen Alexandra for the Guildhall of London and has now come to America to paint the miniature of President Roosevelt. It doesn't require a ten foot canvas to depict all the important points in our President's features, Mr. Williams says. By condensation strength may be made almost tran-

The miniatures that Mr. Williams did of their reigning Majesties of Great Britain were under commission of Sir Alfred Reynolds, late Sheriff of the city of London. Now Sir Alfred has commissioned Mr. Williams to get the likeness of Mr. Roosevelt on imperishable ivory to hang near the miniatures of their Majesties. Not right next, says Mr. Williams, but near.

"Oh, I am quite sure that President Roosevelt will sit for me." said Mr. Williams last night in his rooms at the Plaza Hotel. "I have a letter of introduction from Gov. Atkinson of Hawaii, who is a cousin of my wife, and all that sort of thing; but I believe that when Mr. Roosevelt knows that I want him to sit for me and that Sir Alfred Revnolds has commissioned me to get his miniature—which will hang in tiuildhall, you know—there will really be no difficulty in getting your President's consent."

Mr. Williams showed THE SUN reporter the miniatures he had done of King Edward and Queen Alexandra—very soft in detail and of perfect design.
"But that's not the kind of a miniature I want to paint of President Roosevelt," Mr. Williams interjected hastily. "You know, I've got to see that man, your President just once to know what kind of a dent, just once to know what kind of a miniature to make. Only if he will let me see him making a political speech or holding a Cabinet meeting or playing tennis— action, action! That's it, you know." The artist's eyes lit up in anticipation. "He's a devil, you know; a devil for sma

"He's a devil, you know; a devil for smashing, hammering, plugging at things. He's a wild built for strength—oh, no offence to him in these words, you know. Complimentary, don't you see?

"But that's the man I want to paint. I don't want him to sit still and let me make a flat photographic likeness. His Majesty King Edward sat very still and smoked black cigars when I was painting him; but then you see his Majesty is a quiet man.

then you see his Majesty is a quiet man.
Diplomacy has made him quiet.

"If I get a sitting with your President I don't want him to sit. He must walk around, talk, get excited, get real angry, high the get was comprehend."

kick the cat out, you comprehend."

The president of the Royal Society of Miniature Painting illustrated his remarks as well as the breadth of the room would "I say now"—he suddenly paused at the verturned waste basket. "That will be

"I say now"—he suddenly paused at the overturned waste basket. "That will be the idea, eh? To put on ivory the man you Americans have come so well to know just as he is. No flattery, you know. No softening of the lights. Just that devil of a man—that devil of a man."

Mr. Williams said the Governor of Hamaii, his wife's course, had commissioned.

Mr. Williams said the Governor of Hawaii, his wife's cousin, had commissioned him to paint a miniature of Mrs. Longworth, if he could get a sitting. The Governor of Hawaii wanted it to hang in some public building in Honolulu. He thought that a miniature of President Rooseveit in Guildhall, London, and one of the President's daughter in the old palace at Honolulu would not be so bad, eh?

The artist brought with him on the Kaiser

The artist brought with him on the Kaiser Wilhelm II., which arrived yesterday, one original of the miniature he made of the Queen in 1904 and several copies of the portrait of King Edward. He also brought along copies of miniatures he made of the process of the process of miniatures he made of the process of portrait of King Edward. He also brought along copies of miniatures he made of Lady Hamilton, wife of Gen. Ian Hamilton, the Countess of Clonmell, Mme. Eliza Layman and other notable women of England.

Mr. Williams says that he may give an exhibition here. But first of all he's going exhibition here. But first of all he's going to go after that Roosevelt miniature.

"Before he gets too busy with politics and all that sort of thing," Mr. Williams

HALT ON MEXICAN RAILROAD. Rumor That 6,000 Men Have Been Laid Off on Harriman Line.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 17 .- According to a despatch received here to-day from Tepio all construction work on the railroad which is being built through western Mexico by E. H. Harriman and associaties has been temporarily suspended. More than 6,000 men were employed in the construction gangs.

The report is doubted here, as it has been stated by Epes Randolph, president of the road, that there would be no suspension of construction work, and while here Mr. Randolph obtained from the Government an extension of a year's time in which to com-

Man Who Killed a Relative Surrenders Joseph Telesco, 33 years old, of 139 South Canal street, Newark, who shot and killed his brother-in-law, Nicholas Arcalotta, at a christening party in the former's home last Sunday night, gave himself up to the Newark police yesteray. He confessed the shooting, but would make no explanation. He said he had been worrying over his act and wanted to have it settled.

Services in Memory of Cortlandt Parker, Sr Services in memory of the late Cortland Parker, Sr., Nestor of the New Jersey bar were held in Trinity Church, Newark, last night. The services were attended by members of the New Jersey bar and friends. Bishop Edwin S. Lines, the Rev. Dr. John C. Eccleston, former rector of Trinity Church and Chancellor William J. Magie spoks.

WHAT! FOOTBALL AT COLUMBIA

BUT IN THE GREEK FASHION AND PROPERLY SIMPLIFIED.

Rival Fraternities Struggle on the Horaco Mann Training Field While Supporters Hurl the Hellenic Alphabet at Each Other-Beta Theta Pi Won the Game.

Sing. O Muse, the wrath of Columbia's faculty, and so on through several books-all n pentameter. For has not football, the forbidden, been played on Morningside Heights, though under the official ban? Every man who read his Sun carefully yesterday morning knows that it has; but the bare statement of the fact that the Beta Theta Pis got out and walloped up the Delta Tau Deltas on Friday afternoon scarcely meets the needs of a situation that goes far to justify the manner in which the classics have just proved that the youth of our universities do not study them too

What few Delta Tau Deltas and Beta Theta Pis were seen around the campus on Saturday morning wore that hunted look, for they were far from being certain that the faculty would not regard their game as an infraction of the rule prohibiting intercollegiate and interclass football at the home of Simple Spelling. None of the undergraduates who took their degrees in their hands so boldly was in training, and in consequence a number of them didn't feel in consequence a number of them didn't feel on Saturday morning sufficient enthusiasm for the pursuit of learning to pursue it very far in the class room. Those who still pursued pursued faintly.

That the match will be regarded as a protest against the prohibition of football nobody doubts. On the other hand, the men who took part in it are ready with a defence. If they are brought up on the carpet they will argue that they didn't break any rule forbidding a football game, because they only played half a game. That they were too fagged out to play any longer is only a detail. Anyhow, if it was football it was simple football, to which nobody in the Brander Matthews camp can consistently object.

Von Saltza, who used to play sure enough

Von Saltza, who used to play sure enough football when Columbia had what was called an eleven, captained the Beta Theta reise and the young Greeks under his command licked the Hellenes who represented the Delta Tau Deltas, 11 to 5. Von Saltza, in fact, was the Achilles of the match, and if he had a vulnerable heel Thetis had neglected to tell anybody about it, for he it was who made both touchdowns for the neglected to tell anybody about it, for he ambrosial locked heroes who followed his battle cry. But there were honors enough to go around, for every one of the Greeks who rushed forth to the fray regarded himself as an Ajax defying the faculty thunderbolts of Zeus N. M. Butler, and all the Athenian who green who greed where all the Athenian historians who stood where the side lines would have been if there had been any side lines said that the slaughter been any side lines said that the slaughter was worse than that at Thermopylæ. The throng of non-combatants was large and most enthusiastic. To be sure the gridiron (the Horace Mann Training Field) was not much bigger than a good size swimming tank, there weren't any sided lines, and the fact that no football has been played at Columbia in two years resulted in some pretty weird attempts to conform to the new rules. But it was at all events a great big kick at authority, and as such to be uproariously encouraged. and as such to be uproariously encouraged. So the Greeks went at it hammer and tongs, and when Von Saltza scored first there rolled out from the Beta Theta Pi contingent this academic din:

Socrates! Hemlock! Hol Polloi! Xerxes! Artemis! Oi! Yoi! Yoi!

But the Delta Tau Deltas were not discouraged by the achievement of Achilles Von Saltza. They went back at the Beta Thetas hammer and tongs and by dint of manful wallops managed to score a touchdown themselves. At that their clan as-sailed the sounding skies with a classic shout that sounded like this:

Aphrodite! Illum Agamemnon! Zeus Oh, the very deuce!

But Achilles was still to be reckoned with and before long he made another touchdown right under the walls of Troy, so to speak. And at that a Greek shero named McCulloch, who led the Delta Tau Deltas, brake out into a great cry and continued upon it for a considerable space. Learned scholars present said that he was repeating the catalogue of the ships. However that may be it is certain that while thus employed he made many gestures and cast his noseguard upon the earth and danced upon it, though not joyfully.

Subsequently he reviled another Greek hero named McCartney, who had fallen before the impetuous charge of Achilles before the impetuous charge of Achilles Von Saltza, and when McCartney would have made explanation he retorted upon him, saying: "Agon prophasin, ouk epide-ketai, oute philia."

Scholars on the outskirts of the fray said later that this meant: "War and friendship admit of no ex-

"War and friendship admit of no excuses."

But Hero McCartney had his chance later, for it chanced that when the ball was passed toward him by Hero Bostrom, who played at quarterback, Hero McCulloch dashed in and attempted to seize it, only to let it fall to the ground, where it was seized upon by one of the Beta Theta Pis. Thereupon that Hero McCartney was wroth and approaching that Hero McCulloch he observed pointedly in the hearing of several other heroes:

"Adunaton polla teknomenon anthropor panta kalos poiein!!!" panta kalos poiein!!!"
Trouble was at once looked for by the scholars, who realized in the course of fifteen minutes or so that Hero McCartney had said to Hero McCulloch: "It is impossible for a man who attempts many things to do them all well." It is indeed possible that blows migh have been struck had not Hero McKeown. who was at quarterback for the Beta Theta

Pis, shouted aloud at this instant:
"Omega, omicron, gamma, Euridipus melanos."
All the Delta Tau Delta heroes knew at once that this was the signal for a for-ward pass, and Hero McCartney and Hero McCulloch consequently postponed the McCulloch consequently postponed the settlement of their private differences for the purpose of heading off the common

And so the battle raged up and down the field until the referee said "Chronos" and put up his watch. Not many of the heroes were seriously injured, though Hero McCartney sprained his acrist in trying to hurdle the line. The decisions of the referee were not all received in a mild spirit and one hero in objecting even went so far as to make accusatives of specification against the governing official. He said, did this hero, that the referee was rotten as to his decisions.

The coach of the Delta Tau Deltas was The coach of the Delta Tau Deltas was not at all discouraged by the defeat inflicted upon them. He said that his Greeks had merely made the mistake of playing in the subjunctive mood, while the Beta Theta Pis had employed the imperative. This error, said the coach, would not in future he repeated.

Extension Telephones On message rate lines are only 50c. per Month They are most convenient. Call Contract Department, 9010 Cortlandt, for full information. NEW YORK TELEPHONE CO.,

DID THOMAS ALMOST SECEDE?

eneral Said to Have Sought Confederate RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 17 .- The Rev. J. William Jones, chaptain of the United Confederate Veterans and formerly secre-tary of the Southern Historical Society. when asked to-night regarding a letter alleged to have been written by Gen. George H. Thomas, and said to be in Mr. Jones's possession, in which Thomas made applica-tion for a commission in the Confederate service, said that such a letter was in existence among the files of the Southern Historical Society, which has its head-quarters in the Confederate museum here. Chaplain Jones says the letter was directed to Gen. F. H. Jones, superintendent of the Virginia Military Institute, and vent out from that institution, with the contained a request that should Virginia secede from the Union he should be appointed commandant of the troops who went out from that institution, with the rank of Major.

"Following the writing of this letter Gen. Thomas secured a furlough from his post of duty in the United States army and came to Virginia expressly to see Gen. Smith in regard to the commission," said Chaplain Jones.

Mr. Jones said further that Gen. Fitzhugh Lee had often told him that he saw Gen. Thomas in New York, when he passed through that city on his way to join the Southern army, and that in leaving him Gen. Thomas remarked: "Save a good place down there, Fitz, I'll follow you." At this statement Gen. Thomas's wife is known to have remarked: "Not if I can prevent you." It is believed that Gen. Thomas listened to the persuasion of his wife, who was a Northern woman, and linked his fortunes to the cause which she supported.

linked his fortunes to the cause which she supported.

In response to a question: "Did Gen. Thomas ever seek an appointment in the Southern army," Gen. Dabney H. Maury once wrote for a publication which appeared in an annual report of the Southern Historical Society as follows:

"At the request of his friends Gen. Thomas was appointed a Colonel of Virginia forces, and went North presumably to settle his affairs before enlistment. He never returned."

Chaplain Jones says emphatically that turned."

Chaplain Jones says emphatically that Gen Thomas's friends in the Virginia convention, immediately before the outbreak of hostilities, earnestly urged his appointment as commander-in-chief of all the Virginia forces rather than Gen. Robert E Lee, basing their support on the fact that Thomas was a secessionist and that Lee was not.

Chaplain Jones also says that in a letter to Gen. Fletcher Gen. Thomas applied for the place of adjutant and inspector-general of Virginia forces, but that all positive proof of this fact was destroyed when Gen. Fletcher's home in Lexington was burned, soon after the war.

SIR LEOPOLD M'CLINTOCK DEAD. British Admiral Took Part in Four Famou Aretic Expeditions.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—Admiral Sir Francis Leopold McClintock, retired, an Elder Brother of Trinity House, died to-day. He

Admiral McClintock was the second son of Henry McClintock of the Third Dragoon Guards and was born in Dundalk, Ireland, in 1819. He entered the British Navy in 1831 and in 1848 he was a member of the Arctic expedition under Sir James C. Ross and in 1850 he was First Lieutenant of the Resistance in the Arctic expedition for the relief of Sir John Franklin. In 1852 he served under Sir Edward Belcher in a third essay for the Pole. He succeeded in rescuing Capt. McClure near Melville Island, but was obliged to abandon his own ship. In command of the Fox, fitted out by Lady Franklin, he started in 1857 on a n search for Sir John Franklin and made the first discovery of the death of that explorer on the northwestern coast of King William Land. On his return to England in 1859 he was knighted and received the degree of doctor of laws from the universities of Oxford, Cambridge and Dublin. He published a book called "The Voyage of the Fox in the Arctic Seas." From 1879 to 1882 he was the commander in chief of the station.

Trinity House is the property of "The Master, Wardens and Assistants of the Guild, Fraternity or Brotherhood of the Most Glorious and Individual Trinity," a company founded in 1515. The society consists of a paster deputy master twenty. consists of a master, deputy master, twenty four elder brethren and an unrestricted number of younger brethren, and was founded with a view to the promotion and encouragement of English navigation. It encouragement of English havingation. The regulates and manages lighthouses and buoys around the British coast and appoints and licenses efficient pilots. Two elder brethren help the Admiralty Court in the coast and appoints and increase at the coast and appoints and the coast are at the coast and appoints and the coast and appoints and the coast and the coast are at the coast are at the coast and the coast are at the coast and the coast are at the co deciding all cases relating to collisions at sea. The annual income of Trinity House

A REAL D. A. R. DEAD.

Father Served Five Enlistments and Was in

41 Revolutionary Engagements. PITTSFIELD, Mass., Nov. 17.-Mrs. Ann Eliza Wilbur Prentiss, the only real daughter of the Revolution living in Berkshire county, died to-day at the home of Mrs. Romaine B. Powell, her daughter. She was born July 3, 1833, at Chatham, N. Y. She was the daughter of Joseph Wilbur, who, was the daughter of Joseph Wilbur, who, as is shown by the family records, served five different enlistments in the army of the Revolution, was at one time an orderly under Gen. Washington and was a color sergeant at the battle of Saratoga. He took part in forty-one engagements.

Mrs. Prentiss had a memorandum of her father's enlistments, showing that he served two months in 1776 under Col. Asa Waterman, two months in 1777 under Capt. John Smith, one month that year under Capt. Vosburg, three months under Col. H. W. Livingston and Capt. Elisha Gilbert and fifteen days in 1778 under Col. Whiting. Mr. Wilbur lived to be 91.

Mrs. Prentiss was one of six children by his second marriage. Her grandfather.

his second marriage. Her grandfather, George Kittridge, while serving in Colonial wars, was captured by Indians and held a prisoner fourteen years. He was carried into Canada and became a medicine man of the tribe. An Indian girl helped him of the tribe. An Indian girl helped him to escape.

George Prentiss, a brother of Mrs. Prentiss, while in the navy died at sea. Another brother, Eleazer Prentiss, who was in the Twenty-seventh Massachusetts Regiment, died of starvation in Andersonville prison.

Mrs. Prentiss was a charter member of Peace Party Chapter, D. A. R. of Pittsfield. Two years ago she attended a reception in her honor at the Wendell Hotel. She was also a member of William W. Rockwell Relief Corps and of the Methodist Church.

Fifty-four years ago Mrs. Prentiss was Refief Corps and of the Methodist Church.

Fifty-four years ago Mrs. Prentise was married to Horace Prentiss, who died in 1900. She leaves three daughters, Mrs. B. R. Powell, Mrs. Ernest T. Cleveland, Miss Grace A. Prentiss, all of Pittsfield.

DIDN'T DRAW SOON ENOUGH. Italian Found Shot With a Fully Loaded Bevolver Beside Him.

Oronzo Garofola, an Italian ironworker, of 374 Tenth avenue, was found yesterday afternoon lying unconscious in the rear of the first floor hallway at that address with a pistol shot wound in the back of his head. A fully loaded revolver beside Garo-fola indicated that he had attempted to defend himself but had not drawn quickly enough. He was taken to Roosevelt Hos-pital, where the doctors said that he would probably die.

Two men and a woman who heard the shot fired and saw three men run out of the hallway were looked up in the West Thirty-seventh street police station as witnesses. They told the police that Garofola had three roommates. Italian detectives have been sent in search of the three men.

Garofola's three roommates were found later by the detectives and allowed to go after they had proved an alibi.

Saks & Company

Herald Square

Announce, beginning this morning,

A Sale of $5, $6 & $7 } $3.40 Shoes for Men, at

We hold intimate business relationship with the man who has placed Newark in the forefront of American cities noted for the production of fine footwear. It is perfectly logical, therefore, that we should enjoy such benefits as may be derived from the disposal of his surplus lines. In turn, you are offered an opportunity to buy, at far below customary prices, the highestigrade ready-for-service shoes yet produced.

> LEATHERS include patent, gunmetal or wax calf, also kidskin.

MODELS-blucher, button or lace-embracing the complete range from conservative to extreme.

EVERY SIZE-AA to EE, 5 to 11

made of fine French Calf. soft Black Kid and Patent Leathers, in various weights, built with a considerable touch of smartness, yet conservative enough for men of medium quiet tastes.

Or, if you prefer buttoned boots, we have them.

The Lakewood model is so good we are showing 17 different styles on that last alone. Priced from $5.00 upwards.

French, Shriner & Urner

153 BROADWAY, Singer Building 365 BROADWAY, cor. Franklin Brooklyn - 367 and 506 Fulton St. Philadelphia - 1229 Chestnut St. Agencies throughout the United States SWIFT KAISER'S CABIN FULL

PROF. MUENSTERBERG ARRIVES WITH A 12 MINUTE ADDRESS.

Richard Hall Comes to Paint Reginald Vanderbilt's Portrait - Six Winning American Jockeys Return-Passen ger Dies Almost in Sight of His Home.

The North German Lloyd steamship Kaiser Wilhelm II. brought in yesterday 722 cabin passengers, an unusual number for this season. Half of them were originally booked on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, which smashed her rudder on her last trip to the east and was steered half way across sea by her twin screws. The Kaiser Wilhelm II. sailed three days ahead of her original schedule for the benefit of the passengers delayed by the accident to

Among her voyagers was Prof. Emil Münsterberg, president of the Department of Public Charities of Berlin, who will make an address at the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Charity Organization Society of this city this week, and then will sail away on the Kaiser. Prof. Münsterberg speaks excellent English. He said that he had spent eighteen hours preparing his address, but that it would not take him more than twelve minutes to deliver it. Dr. Emanuel de Marnay Baruch of this city, who attended the international congress of surgeons at Paris, said the surgeons were divided on the questions of the origin and curability of cancer. "Although the weight of scientific opinion," he said, "may be against the acceptance of a theory of infection, still clinical evidence and ex-be against the acceptance of a theory of infection, still clinical evidence and experience tend to make such a supposition one that should not be disregarded."

Richard Hall, the portrait painter, who is a widower, is here at the request of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt to paint the portrait of Reginald Vanderbilt. While he was stopping at the island of Oland he painted the portrait of Prince Wilhelm of Sweden and incidentally met a widow, Mrs. von Mühlenfels, who is also a painter and was one of his pupils years ago in Paris. They will be married in the spring.

Six American jockeys, who have been winning fame and money in Europe, were cabin passengess by the Kaiser. Thomas Burna, who has been riding the racers of the German Emperor's stables, was accompanied by his wife and his daughters, Roslyn and Clarits. He said that he had ridden fifty-eight winners. Racing for a German owner, he said, involved much travelling in Europe. This had been good for his daughters, who had acquired a fine knowledge of German and French.

Fred Taral has been riding for Baron Springer of Austria-Hungary. His son, John, who has been riding in Germany, is with him. Fred was in 329 races, winning 85 and coming in second in 58. John won 48 and would-have done better, his father said; if he had net been feeling out of sorts physically most of the time. Harry Birken-

48 and would-have done better, his father said, if he had not been feeling out of sorts physically most of the time. Harry Birkenruth of Logansport, Ind., riding for Victor you Mauther, won 40 out of 207 races. W. J. Gannon, who rode for the De Reszkes, won 25 races at Warsaw and St. Petersburg. He will return to Russia next season as a jockey for Prince Lubmersky. H. Lewis, who has been riding for Baron Oppenheim, won 46 races.

won 46 rages.

Maxine Elliott, the actress and wife of Maxine Elliott, the actress and wife of Nat Goodwin, also came by the Kaiser. She will open in Philadelphia with her play, "Under the Greenwood Tree," under her own management. She will appear here at the Garrick on November 31.

William Hurst, a resident of Stapleton, Staten Island and an American citizen who are well as the state of the st Staten Island and an American citizen who had been visiting his native place in Germany and was returning, died almost within sight of his home as the steamship was entering the harbor yesterday morning. He came aboard the liner at Southampton ill of pneumonia and never left his room on the trip. His body was brought to port and was taken charge of by relatives.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 17.-There are nov building in Pittsburg, at one of the steel oar factories 100 steel box cars to be tried out on long hauls by the Union Pacific Railroad. The railroad did not order the cara but agreed to give them a trial. If the all steel box car is a success it will mean another big market for steel.

TIEFANY STVDIOS MADISON AVENVE& FORTY-FIFTH STREET

THE IMPRESSION, MORE O R LESS PREVALENT, THAT ORIENTAL RUGS ARE A LU XURY WITHIN REACH OF THE FEW, IS DISPELLED BY AN INSPECTION OF THE TI FFANY STUDIOS RUG DEP ARTMENT. THOUGH EVE RY WEAVE HAS DISTINCTI VE MERITS, BOTH AS TO D ESIGN AND COLOR, MANY ARE MODERATELY PRICED

HAYWOOD TO COME HERE. The Moyer-Haywood Conference Will Give

It was announced to the Central Federated Union yesterday by Albert Abrams, erated Union yesterday by Albert Abrams, the delegate of the Moyer-Haywood Conference, organized before the trial of William D. Haywood to raise funds for the defence of the indicted officers of the Western Federation of Miners, that Haywood will be in New York next month and that the conference is preparing to give him a reception on his arrival.

"I want to say." he said, "that the con-"I want to say," he said, "that the con-ference is still meeting and wants coop-eration in defending Pettibone, who is now to be tried. Though Haywood is free, Pettibone is not and will pass through the same ordeal as Haywood."

The Final Standard of

So conceded by the musical authorities of the world and accepte by them as the exemplar of what the perfect piano should be. If you contemplate the purchase of plane, you owe it not only to your-elf but to your family to get the best piano value possible for your money. That means either a Steinway Miniature Grand at $800 or a Vertegrand (an upright) at $550. Pianos of all makes taken in exchange. Time payments if desired. Also pianos for rent.

STEINWAY & SONS, Steinway Hall, 107 and 109 E. 14th St., New York. Subway Express Station at the Door.

INSTRUCTION.

MR. & MRS. OSCAR DURYE

CLASSES AND PRIVATE LESSONS.
THE ART OF DANCING AND AESTHETICS.
200-202 West 72d Street.
Special separate classes for women and entidren in Aesthetic Physical Culture and Fancy Bancing. Classic and Social Dancing. Catalog

Kindergartens. Gladergarten Primary Traiming—New Yor ebel Normal and Dr. Earle's Collegiate Pre-col for Girls. 50 W. 96th. Incorporated Insti-L. Scholarships.